

EUGENE E. CLOSSON

Graceland's physical education facility honors a man who has become a familiar and loved person on the campus. Eugene E. Closson taught psychology at the college for twenty-eight years prior to his retirement in 1959. He now holds the rank of faculty emeritus.

Mr. Closson is known as "Doc" to thousands of students who sat in his classes and shared his fellowship over the years. He was in constant attendance at athletic events and was always a friend to the athlete.
